Plenty of Planning Has Gone Into New Junior High Addition

SCHOOL VISITOR: I know that about a half million kids—more or less—will be ready to crown me for mentioning the word "school" right here in the middle of the vacation, but I went down yesterday and inspected the new addition to Harrisburg Junior high school.

Acting as guide for Timmo was Ralph D. Brown, the architect who has the plans and specifications for the contractors. And I'll say right here that plenty of planning went into the building. Must confess, however, I was a little bit lost a couple of times going in and out of rooms into corridors and into rooms.

The building will cost in the neighborhood of $320,000. The Hunt Construction Co. of Mt. Vernon is the general contractor, the Le-Tempt Plumbing Co. of Harrisburg has the plumbing and heating contract and Harrisburg Electric Co. has the contract to do the electrical work.

We started at the north end of the building at the second floor, which is one of two parts where there is a second floor. All the rest is on the first floor.

Anyhow, at the north end the art room stretches across 60 by 24 feet with lots of light and a work room at the east end.

Go over to the west side of this north end and proceed southward and you'll find yourself on the balcony of the gym, where you can look down on the playing floor, which will be 84 by 46 feet. There will be rollaway bleachers on the main floor and in this west balcony which will seat 750 persons. This gym has a lamella roof like the one at HTHS and the windows on each side of the gym are operated from single cranks that take care of an entire side.

Then you continue on through a wide corridor with space for 70 lockers until you come to the library, the only other part of the new building on the second story level. The main room is 80 by 40, and there also are a magazine room, work room and two conference rooms. The lighting here is extensive, both from fluorescent tubes and from the windows. The roof of the original assembly hall connects with the library.

Let's go downstairs now and

Announce Times At HTHS to Arrange Class Schedules

Principal Raymond L. Foster announced today that next year's schedule of classes at Harrisburg Township high school has been completed and that seniors, juniors, and sophomores who wished to arrange their own daily schedule of classes would be given the opportunity to do so during the next three weeks.

The office will be open for this purpose from 8 a. m. until noon and from 1 to 4 p. m. each day Monday through Friday beginning on July 6.

In order to give upperclassmen a preference, those having 10 3-4 or more units of credit are asked to report between July 6 and 9, those having at least 7 but less than 10 3-4 units should report during the week of July 12 to 16 and those having at least 3 but less than 7 units should report during the week of July 19 to 23. Schedules for those having less than 3 units of credit have already been arranged and will be given to them on the first day of school. Parents are invited to accompany students and assist them in arranging their schedules if they wish. Those who cannot be present at the appointed time may have a relative or friend schedule their classes for them. Students should exercise care in making their schedule as nearly as possible the way they want it because this is final and no changes will be made after August 1.

Schedules for those who do not arrange their own at the time indicated will be made by the office staff and such students will have to accept assignment to classes remaining unfilled.

Transfer students, and others who are not registered, may complete their registration during the last week of July or on final registration day, August 23.

Report 200 to 500 Killed by Flood in Mexico

Rio Grande Waters Wash Out Railroad Bridge at Laredo

LAREDO, Tex. (UP)—A National Guard officer said today the Rio Grande's mightiest flood in history has killed from 200 to 500 persons at Piedras Negras, Mexico.

"We haven't been able to go in there yet," Lt. Don E. McMains of the 141st Infantry said at Eagle Pass, Tex., opposite Piedras Negras. "But Mexican officials have estimated there are from 200 to 500 dead."

"We've flown over several times and you can see quite a few bodies caught in the drift and brush next to the river," he said.

Police in Eagle Pass were inclined to doubt the figure might be as high as 500 and the state highway patrol, which also heard the report, stressed it was unconfirmed.

"On the other hand, with the condition of the river, it could possibly be true," a highway patrol spokesman said in Laredo.

The Rio Grande broke the main rail link between the United States and Mexico today. The Texas highway patrol reported the railroad bridge between Laredo and Nuevo Laredo, which also carried the only remaining telephone circuits to the interior of Mexico, was broken shortly after 2 a. m. CST.

The river climbed to 61.92 feet at 6:30 a. m. CST, but officials said the rate of rise was slowing down. They thought the crest would be reached before noon CST.

The biggest previous flood touched 52.2 feet in 1932. The record-breaking flood has already killed at least 18 persons and driven 40,000 from their homes on both sides of the river. But the 87,000 persons living in the twin cities here appeared likely to be its last major victims.

Count On New Dam
The new Falcon Dam, 70 miles south of Laredo, was counted on to hold the flood waters and save the lower Rio Grande Valley.

Severe Wind, Rain Storms In Illinois Areas

CHICAGO (UP)—Northern Illinois housewives were clearing away debris today from a series of heavy wind and rain storms that downed power lines, flooded streets and caused considerable property damage.

In southern Illinois, bad weather led to one traffic death. One tornado demolished farm buildings, two miles south of Milledgeville, Ill., and tornado warnings were out Tuesday night for portions of five states.

Illinois towns hit by storms Tuesday included Rockford, Elgin, Palatine, Arlington Heights, Des Plaines, Park Ridge, Woodstock, Aurora and DeKalb.

A deluge left a foot of water flowing in some Elgin streets. Scores of basements were flooded. At Mascoutah, Henry Legendre, 73, was killed when his car struck a trestle over Ill. 43 during a heavy rainstorm.

Heavy winds kicked up billowing clouds of dust that shrouded the sun at Chicago. Gusts at the Chicago suburbs of Palatine, Arlington Heights and Des Plaines broke trees and sent branches flying.

Officials at Rockford reported that several primary power lines were knocked out. The Rock River was reported full of floating debris for a time after the storm.

A thunderstorm at DeKalb caused several power failures. Felled trees blocked some roads.

Move in Rig to Drill Oil Test at Location Adjoining Raleigh

Ray A. Wolf of the Coca-Cola Bottling Company and associates of Harrisburg and George and W. R. and the Olds Oil Company have just moved a rig in north of the town of Raleigh to drill the No. One Mabel Sronce location. This is a drilling test that has been in the making for the past two months and the location adjoins the town of Raleigh, Mr. Wolf states.

Grass Fire

The fire department made a run to a grass fire in the 1100 block of South Leford street at 4:20 p. m. yesterday. There was no damage.

Moscow Announces Opening of Soviet Atomic Power Plant

LONDON (UP)—Moscow Radio today broadcast an announcement of the opening of an atomic power plant in the Soviet Union.

A broadcast monitored here said the Soviet Council of Ministers had issued a statement revealing "the opening of the first atomic power station in the U. S. S. R."

A British Atomic Commission spokesman in London said "it true" the Russian atomic power station would be the first known to have been set up anywhere in the world.

Altmire Names Civil Defense Advisory Groups

Ray Altmire, Saline county chairman of Civil Defense, today announced the advisory committee heads of various Civil Defense departments in the county.

He said that evacuation departments are being set up in the county and that similar departments must be formed in each town or community.

"These departments should cooperate fully in order that the system may work effectively," he stated.

Charles Hagan is the chairman of the advisory committee which now contains the following members: Harrisburg Mayor Ralph Horning, Eldorado Mayor John David Upchurch, Carrier Mills Mayor Freeman O'Keefe, Galatia Mayor Herman Heathman, Raleigh Mayor Fred Dodd, Robert E. Ozment of Stonefort, Guy DeNeal of Mitchellville, Dr. B. E. Montgomery, Hal Burnett and Rees Turner of Harrisburg.

Those in charge of the various departments of county Civil Defense:

Doctors and surgeons: Dr. John Choiser.

Hospitals: Dr. Warren D. Tuttle.

Nurses: Mrs. Rees Turner.

Nurses Aid: Mrs. Mary Farley.

Food (Salvation Army): Lt. John Kimmons.

Clothing: Rev. Louie Durfee.

Housing: Julius L. Steinmarch.

Red Cross: Louie E. Beltz.

Welfare: Ray Owens.

First Aid: Louis E. Aaron.

Registration: Perry Moore.

Communication: Telephone, M. Lynch; radio, I. M. Taylor; telegraph, Guy Lawrence; television, O. L. Turner Jr.

Ground Observers Corps: Charles Hagan, Rees Turner, assistant.

Transportation: L. E. Kimmel.

Information: Saline County Business Women's club.

Messenger Service: Boy and Girl Scouts.

Traffic Control: Special police, Harrisburg American Legion and VFW posts.

The Washington, D. C., attorney told delegates to the organization's biennial convention Tuesday night that leaders of the nation "realize that American women are partners who can pull their weight for victory."

In a nationwide CBS network broadcast, she said the B&WP was organized during World War I "in response to the need for women workers," and "we will do it again whenever our services are needed."

She referred to a recent statement by Gen. James A. Van Fleet that the most serious lack in this country is in manpower.

"The only way to supplement this is with womanpower," Mrs. Rawalt said, "and in the event of another war, women would have to be drafted."

She said the "whole economy" would suffer if the 19-million women in the labor force were unemployed.

Mrs. Rawalt was elected president without opposition Tuesday to succeed Miss Helen Irwin, of Des Moines, Iowa.

Other new officers are: Miss Hazel Palmer, Sedalia, Mo.; Miss Grace B. Daniels, Kingston, Pa.; Miss Fannie Hardy, Little Rock, Ark.; vice presidents: Miss Hattie Steinberg, York, Neb.; recording secretary; and Miss Mary Elizabeth Connelly, Billings, Mont., chairman of the negotiating committee.

Had Disturbing Oppenheimer Report: Ike

Commission Refuses Security Clearance For Famed Scientist

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower told reporters today that he asked the Atomic Energy Commission last year to reinvestigate Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer because he received a disturbing report about the famed physicist.

The President at his news conference declined to go into any detailed evaluation of the 4-1 vote by the commission Tuesday which settled the matter by refusing security clearance for Oppenheimer. It found that he had had "imprudent and dangerous associations... with known subversives."

The President said the AEC decision was made in normal procedure by men he trusted and that he had not studied their findings in any detail.

Then, in answering a series of related questions about Oppenheimer, the President said the investigation and handling of the Oppenheimer case was the responsibility of the AEC.

A reporter questioned this interpretation of AEC responsibility, saying to the President that the AEC had "never discussed the case until it received a letter from you last Dec. 3... ordering the investigation."

Confident of Proper Investigation

The President said that his recollection of the matter was that he received a report about Oppenheimer that was disturbing to him and he reported it to the AEC, confident that the matter would be investigated properly.

The AEC ruling rang down the curtain on Oppenheimer's 11 years of service as one of the government's most honored advisers.

Informed sources said Oppenheimer will not attempt an appeal to the White House, even if this were possible. His contract as an AEC consultant ends at midnight and the government presumably will take steps to recover any secret papers in his possession.

Whether it will continue shadowing him to guard the secrets he knows was not disclosed.

Issues Statement

In a statement issued through his attorneys in New York, Oppenheimer declared that the dissenting opinion of AEC Commissioner Henry D. Smyth "says what needs to be said." He added his hope, however, that scientists will be used "with humanity, with wisdom and with courage," that their counsel "will be heard."

There was applause in the House when the AEC decision was announced. The White House was officially silent but members of the staff called the ruling "good."

Members of the House - Senate Atomic Energy Committee viewed the case as closed and agreed an investigation seems unnecessary. But protests were expected from scientific groups which have opposed the government's position.

2,021 in County Receive $79,305 Monthly Social Security Benefits

Retired workers and their spouses in Saline county were getting about 75 per cent of the $79,305 in old-age and survivors insurance payments being made monthly in the county at the end of last year, E. Bishop Hill, manager of the Harrisburg social security office, reported today.

Beneficiaries of all groups on the rolls in December totaled 2,021 in Saline county, he said. This is an increase of 229 over the number of beneficiaries in this county in the same month of 1952.

In making this announcement, Mr. Hill released newly available figures showing the number of persons in the several beneficiary groups in the county and the total in benefits being paid. In December, 1,048 retired workers received a total of $50,963; 508 aged wives and widows got $14,294; a total of $10,262 went to 364 children, including a few children of retired aged workers; 94 mothers with minor children in their care were receiving a total of $353 monthly; and $253 in survivors payments went to seven dependent aged parents on the beneficiary rolls. The total in monthly benefit amounts paid in Saline county increased $11,376 in the 12-month period.

Retired insured workers continued to be the largest group of beneficiaries. These are persons age 65 or over who qualified for monthly payments through employment or self-employment covered by the social security law.

Children of deceased insured workers made up the greater number of survivors insurance beneficiaries, Mr. Hill said. Benefit payments to children (including a

A TRAILER LOADED with cattle and horses flipped on its side this morning on Route 45 at the Barnett street intersection, injuring two men who were working on the roadway there. The driver, escaped without injury. One horse was killed instantly and two cattle were badly injured, requiring disposal. The truck contained some twenty animals.

Cattle Truck Overturns on Rt. 45; Two Men Injured; Several Animals Destroyed

Two men were injured this morning shortly after nine o'clock when a cattle truck went out of control on Highway 45 at the Barnett street intersection and turned on its side.

Injured were Arrell Wasson Jr., 30, of Harrisburg, and D. C. Peterson, 61, of New Burnside. Both men were working on the road construction at that point when the accident occurred.

Wasson sustained a dislocated left knee, cuts to the left hand and contusions to the chest. Peterson was bruised about the head, left knee and cut inside the mouth.

Cleo LaCour, Sikeston, Mo., driver of the truck, escaped without injury, save for bruises. The truck was badly damaged and several of the animals were injured to the extent that it was necessary to destroy them.

Investigating officers reported that wheels of the trailer evidently slipped off the pavement at a place where construction was in progress. The driver of the truck, veering to straighten the vehicle and to avoid further construction hazards, lost control as the weight of the animals shifted and flipped the trailer on its side.

Peterson was working in a cul-

Black Bull on Blacktop On Dark Night is Menace, Judge Rules

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UP)—"A black bull on a blacktop highway is a menace to night driving," a Superior Court judge ruled Tuesday.

The judge awarded Mrs. Agnes Smith $3,000 damages for personal injuries suffered when her auto collided with a bull one dark night on a blacktop road in 1949.

The second largest group of survivor beneficiaries, according to Mr. Hill, was made up of widows of deceased workers with minor children also entitled to benefit payments in their care. In such cases, the age of the widow is not a consideration in eligibility for survivors payments. Benefit payments to this group also increased in the 12-month period ending with December 1953, he said.

These local figures for old-age insurance payments also reflect a national trend, Mr. Hill pointed out. In the country as a whole, more than six million persons were receiving such benefit payments at the end of 1953, almost a million more than in December 1952.

These local figures for old-age insurance payments also reflect a national trend, Mr. Hill pointed out. In the country as a whole, more than six million persons were receiving such benefit payments at the end of 1953, almost a million more than in December 1952.

While these statistics may seem to be just so many figures in cold print," Mr. Hill said, "the payment monthly of $79,305 to 2,021 persons in this county is of real significance to the economic well-being of the community at large, and in many cases represents the greatest or only source of income to the individual family concerned."

Mr. Hill also stated that in the 14 southern Illinois counties served by the Harrisburg district office, 14,366 persons are receiving payments totaling $557,282 every month. Beneficiaries of nearly all types are being added to the rolls every week, Mr. Hill added that the figures shown above do not include payments of lump-sum death benefits.

Offer Plan to Assure $20 Cut To Taxpayers

Proposal Means $40 for Couples Filing Joint Returns

WASHINGTON (UP)—Senate Republicans yielded to heavy pressure today and offered a compromise plan to assure an income tax cut of $20 a year for all taxpayers.

Their proposal would mean a reduction of $40 for married couples filing joint returns, but they would get no additional benefit for dependents.

The plan was framed at a hastily called GOP caucus at the Senate which was headed for showdown voting on a Democratic-sponsored plan to cut taxes by raising personal income tax exemptions by $100 a year.

The GOP plan would cost the Treasury about 960 million dollars a year when fully effective, compared with $2,400,000,000 for the Democratic proposal.

It would take effect July 1 instead of Jan. 1 as the Democrats proposed.

Details of the proposal came out in bits and pieces when Senate debate resumed on the huge administration tax reform bill.

As explained by Sen. Eugene D. Millikin (R-Colo.), the GOP plan called for a much more limited cut than would result from a $100 increase in personal income tax exemptions.

He said the Democratic proposal, introduced Monday by Sen. Walter F. George (D-Ga.), offered a $20 tax cut to bottom bracket taxpayers but $91 for those in the highest bracket.

Millikin explained that the GOP plan would give the $20 reduction only to the taxpayer ($40 for married couples), with no added reduction for his dependents.

He said the tax cut also would not be given to persons electing to take other tax concessions already provided in the bill.

The tax cut would not go to persons taking advantage of the provisions giving relief to persons receiving dividend income, paying child care expenses so they can work, using new depreciation allowance concessions, or taking the tax benefit allowed retired workers.

Millikin's plan also called for cutting in half the benefit provided in the House-approved bill for dividend income after the first year.

Today's decision represented a major defeat for the administration which has struggled long and hard to block general income tax reduction this year because the federal budget is still in the red.

Mushrooming support among Republicans for the last-minute GOP tax cut plan forced the meeting. Some Republican leaders were clearly worried by the "family fight" as well as the politically potent Democratic proposal.

George proposed his exemption boost as a substitute for a provision in the House-passed revision bill providing tax relief on income from corporation stock dividends. Republicans say this provision is needed to ease the "double taxation" on dividends, but Democrats called it a "sop" for the wealthy.

The Republican tax credit plan was not proposed as a substitute for the dividend proposal. But its backers, apparently conscious of the political appeal of the Democratic argument, said the dividend relief should be countered by cuts for lower income groups.

House Passes Foreign Aid Bill

WASHINGTON (UP)—The House today passed and sent to the Senate a $3,338,608,000 foreign aid bill, only 109 million dollars less than President Eisenhower said was "essential" for the free world defense against Communism.

House Speaker Joseph W. Martin Jr. hailed the House action as a "vote of confidence in the Eisenhower policies to bring peace to the world."

The House, on a 390-0 roll call, adopted an amendment designed to bar the British-proposed "Locarno" non-aggression pact for Southeast Asia.

The amendment expresses "the sense of Congress" that funds for the Indochina War should be barred to any country which signs a treaty guaranteeing Communist territory in Asia.

Far East More Encouraging, President Says

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower said today that the results of his talks with British Prime Minister Winston Churchill made the outlook in the Far East more encouraging.

The President told a news conference that the visit here by Churchill and Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden did much to get American-British policies on the tracks again toward reasonable agreements on world issues.

He said there had been a feeling before the visit that difficulties were standing in the way of reasonable agreements in the world.

Mr. Eisenhower said the broad purposes of each country were clearly established in his talks with Churchill and that fact gave him encouragement, particularly as regards the Far East.

The two leaders agreed during Churchill's visit to "press ahead" on a Southeast Asian collective defense plan.

Mr. Eisenhower took note of Churchill's plea at a press-rundown Monday—that every effort be made toward peaceful co-existence between the Communist and non-Communist worlds.

The President said he fully agrees that we have got to find a way of living together—but not at the price of appeasement of communism.

Allows Direct Quote

Allowing himself to be quoted directly, he declared that the United States will "not be a party to any treaty that makes any country a slave."

He made that statement after he was asked if the United States would not cooperate on an Indochina peace treaty that would partition Viet Nam.

The President was asked if he agreed with Churchill's views on a Big Three meeting with Soviet Premier Georgi Malenkov. Churchill said while he was here that he still favored such a meeting at the right time.

Mr. Eisenhower noted that he had said time and again that he would do anything to reach an understanding with Russia if he

Eisenhower Asks Increase in Farm Support Funds

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower forwarded to Congress today a request for a 1½-billion-dollar increase in funds to support farm prices.

The request at this time was interpreted as an effort to dramatize the cost of the present price support program and to gain support for his program. The President and Secretary of Agriculture Ezra T. Benson maintain that flexible price supports would be less costly than the rigid price support program advocated by the bipartisan congressional farm bloc.

Rites Thursday For Joseph G. Upchurch

The funeral of Joseph G. Upchurch who died Monday at his home in West Frankfort will be held Thursday at 2 p. m. at the Stone funeral home in West Frankfort. Rev. James R. Upchurch will officiate, and burial will be in the Masonic cemetery at Raleigh.

Recommend Holding Marshal

MOUNDS CITY, Ill. (UP)—A coroner's jury Tuesday night recommended that City Marshal Dewey Carrington be held for investigation by a grand jury for the fatal shooting here of Carl Hawf, 29, Monday night.

Carrington shot Hawf during a scuffle when he resisted arrest after Carrington stopped him for speeding. Seven bullets from Carrington's pistol hit Hawf's body.

Carrington still was in a Cairo hospital with a brain concussion received when Hawf beat the marshal with his own nightstick. The marshal's testimony was relayed through Pulaski County Sheriff John Barnett.

Carrington said the shooting took place while he was struggling with Hawf. He said he emptied his pistol because he was afraid Hawf might seize it and shoot him. Carrington said he did not know what effect the bullets had.

Orlan Youngblood, a witness to the incident, confirmed Carrington's story.

(Editorial)
PLEASING VICTORY

PRESIDENT EISENHOWER
can look with comfort on the virtual assurance that Sen. Margaret Chase Smith of Maine will be back in the Senate next year.
She must still run the gamut of the September Maine election, but no one anticipates trouble for her then.

Mrs. Smith got over her biggest hurdle when she defeated 34-year-old Robert Jones in the state's GOP primary by a margin of roughly five to one.

Her victory was a resounding vote of confidence for a woman who has mastered the techniques of lawmaking better than many men who try. She has proved a highly responsible senator, and a loyal supporter of the Eisenhower administration in its effort to put over a winning legislative program.

Jones was a protégé of Senator McCarthy, though the latter did not campaign for him and Jones sought hard toward the end to divorce himself publicly from that link. Most observers felt that McCarthy was not a strong issue in the Maine affair. But one wonders how the returns would have been read had Jones won.

One Name in 400 Million, But Census Bureau Workers Can Find It

YOUR NAME IS PROBABLY HERE: Census Bureau employee
Mrs. Helen Y. Thompson looks up name in bureau's Soundex files.

By PATTI SIMMONS
NEA Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON—(NEA)—Ladies who have fibbed about their ages and wish to come clean are among the many Americans who send SOS's to the U. S. Census Bureau.

Now and then the bureau receives a confession letter from a lassie who deducted a few years,
perhaps from her marriage license,
and is anxious to right the record in order to claim things like social security or retirement pay.

But it costs moolah to prove she's as old as she once supposedly wasn't.

It's four dollars if the guilty person hopes to "go straight" in three weeks. Applicants choose either this rush job or a first-come, first-served, three dollar search aimed at finding the necessary statistical proof. This may take the bureau six weeks. Should the search take in more than two census years, the fee climbs even higher.

These charges result from a Congressional ruling that services performed by Uncle Sam for an individual must be paid for.

Milton D. Swenson, who heads up the bureau's personal census service section, can't say that women correspondents have done any more fibbing about age than men.
For both, dishonesty figures in only a small number of cases.

What about the people who have no legal proof of their birth and citizenship? Swenson estimates that some 40 million Americans are in this boat.

Before 1920 there was no uniform system of birth registration in all states.

Today the government averages
10,000 requests a month from people who need to prove their birth, age or citizenship. Besides social security or retirement pay, reasons might be to collect insurance, settle estates or obtain passports.

When the bureau unearths John Doe, aged 65, listed in the 1900 census records as 11 years old, that's all the proof needed. With this evidence Doe can obtain a "delayed" birth certificate from his home state.

In 1942 the bureau weathered an onslaught of requests from workers trying to prove citizenship to take defense jobs. Early census records asked what year a person immigrated to the United States and what year they were naturalized.

Name-changing and name evolution in this land of immigrants don't make the paper work any easier.

To beat the problem the bureau employs an ingenious filing system called Soundex. Some 100 million cards containing about 400 million names are arranged alphabetically.
Names that sound alike (such as Martin, Mardin, Merten, Morten and Morden) are grouped under the same code number to compensate for spelling errors.

Say Joe Blow Martin, minus his birth certificate, gets the bureau working on his case. He remembers that his father and mother,
Harvey and Hazel, lived in Orange County, N. C., when the 1920 census was taken.

In the bureau code the various Martin spellings—based on consonant values—are M-635. The searcher takes the North Carolina file for 1920, checks the M-635 drawer and finds that the head of a household, one Harvey Martin, married to Hazel, had a son Joe Blow, at the time 11 years old. And, of course, the card gives the address and other important information.

The Federal Census began in 1790 and has been taken every 10 years since. Nevertheless, Uncle Sam now has transcribed on Sound-ex (and neatly stashed into 1783 filing cabinets) only the census years for 1880, 1900, and 1920.

Swenson explains it would cost seven to 10 million dollars to put another census year on Soundex.
Census documents predating 1880 are preserved in the National Archives. The 1890 records were lost in a fire. Current records are housed in a multi-winged building in Suitland, a nearby Maryland suburb.

When the bureau fails to find a client in its forest of Soundex, the next step is to look into their miles of microfilm.

Here names are arranged, not alphabetically, but in the order in briefing with a short pep talk in which he called for bipartisan support. Then he introduced Undersecretary of State W. Bedell Smith, just back from the Geneva conference.

Gloomily, Smith reported that France is ready to accept an Indo-China cease-fire at any price, and we will probably have to go along with it. Inasmuch as we dictated the armistice terms in Korea on the ground that our boys were doing the fighting, the French are now insisting on fixing the terms
in Indo-China for the same reason.

The United States, the undersecretary of state told the senators, is prepared to draw a "fighting line" in Indo-China, which would embrace Laos, Cambodia, and part of Vietnam. And if the Reds cross that line, the United States would be willing to fight. Smith left the impression, however, that the Reds would demand occupation of all Vietnam — the wealthiest and most populated part of Indo-China — and that the French would let them get away with it.

Secretary Dulles spoke up during one part of the briefing to say that he "thought" India might join an anti-Communist alliance if the Reds tried to invade Laos and Cambodia, because of India's cultural and religious ties with these two small states. But he quickly added that he had no positive evidence.

Meanwhile, Undersecretary
Smith reported that the Chinese Communists are already wooing Laos and Cambodia. He left the impression that, as soon as the military offensive is halted, the Reds would start a political offensive with honeyed words and "silver bullets" to win over the rest of Indo-China.

Only senator who fired any really hot questions at Smith and Dulles was Knowland of California, the Republican Senate leader. The Democrats asked few questions and there was no apparent desire to embarrass the administration.

Senator Knowland, however, questioned Smith rather sharply as to where the final "fighting line" will be drawn in Indo-China. If we draw a fighting line now, and proclaim that we will fight at that line, would we not draw another line later, Knowland asked, and then retreat still farther to another line? Smith and Secretary Dulles never gave him a direct answer. They talked around in circles.

Undersecretary Smith admitted that we were getting next to nowhere with the Southeast Asia alliance. The key, he said, was India, and he indicated that England was taking her cue from India.

The report was so gloomy that Secretary Dulles felt compelled to give a little cheery talk and try to end the conference on an optimistic note.

"The Mendes-France government more nearly expresses the will and spirit of the French people," Mr. Dulles beamed. He interpreted this as improving relations between the United States and France and holding out "more hope" for our policies.

"HOGWASH!"
Senators, comparing notes afterward, recalled that Dulles had told the same group before the Geneva conference that the only reason he was going to Geneva was to save his "friend George Bidault" from losing his job as foreign minister and to prevent the overthrow of the American Laniel government.

Dulles told the senators that the described as the hope of the world to-house canvasses. With map in

State, SIU to Hold
Children's Camp
For Handicapped

CARBONDALE, Ill. — Thirty area children, handicapped in speech and hearing, will participate in Illinois' first combination therapy and camping program to be held July 3-August 14 at Giant City State park by Southern Illinois university under the auspices of the State division of Services for Crippled Children.

The summer program includes a two-week special training course,
now in session, for SIU student speech and hearing clinicians, and student camp counselors who will do much of the work with the children.

Supervising the clinicians will be
Dr. I. P. Brackett, Dr. J. O. Anderson, and Dr. C. W. Garbutt of the SIU speech and hearing clinic.
Supervising the recreational workers will be Don Rames, Sesser high school coach and director of SIU summer camping; and Dr. William Freeberg, SIU chairman of outdoor education.

Serving as visiting clinicians will be Burdette Thurman, speech correctionist in the Harrisburg schools; and David Levine, clinician with the Central Institute for the Deaf, St. Louis.

Children taking part in the program will range from seven to 16 years of age. Cases will include nine children with cleft palates, four cerebral palsy victims, 12 hard of hearing children, one aphasia case, and three or four other cases.

The youngsters will receive concentrated therapy in the mornings only, however therapeutic techniques also will be included in many of the afternoon and evening camp activities. Without being aware of the fact, the children will engage in recreational activities slanted to help them improve their speech or hearing.

SIU summer session students who will serve as clinicians at the camp are Sally Swartz, Carbondale Northwestern University senior; Peggy Nichols, St. Louis, University of Missouri senior; Esther Levine, St. Louis, second grade teacher in the Ames elementary school; Judy Carter, Eldorado, SIU junior; Rachel Kinson, West Frankfort, SIU senior, who will be speech correctionist in Carbondale this year; Barbara Rose, SIU senior; Mary Ann Cagle, Eldorado, speech correctionist; Thomas Robinson, West Frankfort, SIU senior who will be speech correctionist in Du Quoin; and Frances Batchel-dor, Harrisburg, teacher.

WHY SCOOP GRAIN?
You can eliminate scooping ear
corn by setting your feed grinder below the floor level of the corn crib driveway. Ears roll directly into the grinder, says Capper's Farmer. Small grain storage overhead also avoids scooping; for instance, oats can be funneled into the grinder hopper without additional labor.

State Considers Deer Hunting
In Two Areas

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP)—A state report today hinted a legal deer hunting season in Illinois is being considered as a possible control measure of deer population in at least two areas of the state.

The report is a publication by the Illinois Natural History Survey Division and the State Conservation Department called "white-tailed deer populations in Illinois."

The report said in 1953 there were white-tailed deer in at least 74 of Illinois' 102 counties. This compared to only 45 counties where deer were reported in 1947.

The report said in two areas, one near Rockford and the other on the Horseshoe Lake Game Refuge in southern Illinois, there are too many deer.

It said further increase in deer population would threaten the animals existence because of a lack of food supply.

Proper management of these over-populated deer herds might include a legal hunting season, the report concluded.

way, harvesting went right ahead
while other combines bogged down in soft fields.

Early Allocation of Federal Highway Aid Intended to Boost Business

WASHINGTON (UP)—The government made an earlier than usual announcement today of how federal highway aid will be divided among the states next year with the express intention of helping business activity now.

Secretary of Commerce Sinclair Weeks said the speedup in getting new road construction underway "will have a favorable impact" on the nation's economy, providing a steady increase in jobs for highway workers and for workers in industries which make road building equipment and highway and bridge materials.

The $75-million dollars apportioned today will not be paid until fiscal 1956, which is still 12 months away. But highway building can start as soon as states know how much they will receive from the federal pool.

Weeks said one immediate result of today's announcement will be the writing of 100-million dollars more contracts by the states during the next three months than they would otherwise have written.

4 Types of Highways

The funds apportioned today are almost half of the $1,932,000,000 provided by this year's federal-aid highway law for the fiscal years 1956 and 1957. This total—the largest two-year sum ever put up by the federal government—will be matched by state money, at an average of slightly less than one state dollar for each federal dollar.

New York will receive the biggest share—$56,075,099—and it and four others—Texas, California, Pennsylvania and Illinois—will receive slightly more than one-quarter of the entire amount for the 48 states, Hawaii, Puerto Rico and the District of Columbia.

Today's apportionment is divided among four types of highways: 315 1-2 million dollars for the general network of major highways, 210 million dollars for secondary or farm-to-market roads, 175 million dollars for so-called national system of interstate highways, a specially designated 40,000 miles of the most important highway routes connecting large cities and major producing areas.

The apportionment by states included: Illinois $38,994,956; Indiana $21,021,328; Kentucky $15,666,480.

Madman is Slain After Wounding Nine Persons

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UP)—A madman shot and wounded at least nine persons today and was slain by a policeman after he fought dozens of officers in a 2 1/2 hour gun battle from a home where he barricaded himself.

Howard Ellis, 55, on leave from a mental hospital, shot his wife and wounded her critically. Then he holed up in his home with a shotgun and rifle and fired wildly at more than 40 policemen for hours.

Police returned the fire, cautiously at first because they believed five small children were in the house with Ellis. When they learned the children were not there, they closed in with tear gas, submachine guns and armored cars.

Policeman W. D. Sullivan entered the house and slipped quietly from room to room. He found Ellis sitting on a bed. Sullivan fired three times and Ellis fell dead.

The gun battle occurred in a shabby neighborhood while Gov. George N. Craig helped direct the police attack from a car.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear husband and father, Arza Burton, who passed away one year ago today, June 30, 1953.

Softly, the stars are shining up on his precious grave, where beneath lies one we dearly love, but could not save. Friends may think we have forgotten when at times they see us smile; little do they know the heartache that our smiles hide, for all the while we mourn for him in silence, no eyes can see us weep, and many tears are shed while others are asleep. Sadly missed by his wife, L. O. Lott, son, Arlen, two brothers and sister. 3-1

Scott Base Parade, Air Review Honors Lt. General Harper

SCOTT AIR FORCE BASE, Ill. 10—Lt. Gen. Robert W. Harper was scheduled to be honored with a parade and air review today, marking his retirement after six years as chief of the Air Training Command, the largest arm of the United States Air Force.

A flyover of training planes ranging from AT-6's to B-47 jet bombers was scheduled after a parade of 6,000 troops and a reading of Harper's official retirement orders by Lt. Col. Francis Butler, ATC adjutant.

Gen. Thomas D. White, Air Force vice chief of staff, was on hand for the ceremonies.

The 53-year-old Harper and his wife will be guests of honor to-night at a banquet given by ATC Vice Commander Maj. Gen. Glenn O. Barcus.

Harper was named commander of the ATC, which has 42 installations throughout the nation with headquarters here, in 1948. He had won recognition at the conclusion of World War II when he negotiated with Russia the air corridors over Germany which later were used for the famed Berlin airlift.

Harper was in service 34 years. While serving as a lieutenant, he studied law at night school and was admitted to the bar in 1925. He plans to practice law in Harrisburg, Tex., after his retirement.

Taken to Girl's Reformatory

Terrorists Kill

Morocco Newspaperman

CASABLANCA, Morocco. (AP)—Nationalist terrorists assassinated the director of one of the biggest French Morocco newspapers today.

The victim was Dr. Emile Eyraud, head of the big Casablanca newspaper, "La Vigie Marocaine."

Eyraud was shot in the back while standing in front of a bank on a crowded downtown street in the heart of Casablanca. He was pronounced dead on arrival at Co-lumbian Hospital.

A chemical closely related to tetraethyl lead has been used by scientists to show the age of the earth's crust as 3,500,000,000 years. They also found that the earliest time at which all the elements could have been formed was 5,500,000,000 years ago.

Old Type

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (AP)—Luther Vermees sometimes works on his 1891-model Merritt typewriter. He bought the antique from a woman who had inherited it from her father. Set in a small wooden case, the machine is operated by moving a key along a single row of letters and pressing down at the letter desired.

ICC Asked to Investigate Truck Rates

SPRINGFIELD 10P—A trucking industry group today declared a "rate war" is underway among Illinois truckers and petitioned the Illinois Commerce Commission to investigate the industry's rates.

Commerce Commission Chairman George R. Perrine welcomed the submission of the petition and said the matter would be set for hearing.

The Illinois Intrastate Motor Carrier Rate and Tariff Bureau Inc., claiming to represent 800 Illinois for-hire trucking firms, mostly large operators, filed the petition.

It asked the ICC to investigate rates, rules, regulations and practices of motor carriers—and to prescribe minimum freight rates and charges on almost all cargoes.

The petition excluded minimum charges on household goods and personal effects; farm-to-market products, feed and fertilizer; and "bulk" products such as gravel, stone, sand, dirt, coal, etc.

The ICC became the administrator of the Illinois Motor Carrier of Property Act under an act passed by the 1953 Legislature. The act was formerly administered by the Department of Public Works and Buildings.

The act gives the ICC complete rate and regulatory power over the for-hire trucking industry. The 1953 legislation provided that common carrier truckers, those not hauling under individual contracts, be given a period in which to renew operating certificates under the ICC.

While the ICC may set rates and tariffs, to date there has been no attempt to regulate charges. The applications for permits have simply been reviewed and rates submitted by the trucker recorded.

However, the 1953 legislation was passed with the expectation the ICC would take action on trucking rates.

Scientists Watch Total Eclipse of Sun By Moon from Plane at 20,000 Feet

By DELOS SMITH
United Press Science Editor
ABOARD SCIENTISTS' PLANE
OVER MINNEAPOLIS (UP)—The Moon stole the light of the Sun in a rare total eclipse today for 76 seconds.

The Sun, center of the universe, was blotted out at 5:07 a. m. CST over the Twin Cities of Minneapolis and St. Paul. Eminent scientists, including Dr. Harold Urey, a Nobel Prize winner, and Dr. Donald Menzel, director of Harvard Observatory, watched and studied the eclipse from this plane, 239,996 miles from the phenomenon.

If they had watched from the ground, it would have been 240,000 miles, the Moon's distance from earth. Northwest Orient Airlines took them up 20,000 feet in one of its high-flying Stratocruisers, along with 49 other scientists and science writers.

75-Mile Wide Path
In all the world, the best spots to see the total eclipse was in this area and along 75-mile wide path up across Minnesota, Canada, the north Atlantic and Scandinavia, and down across Russia, Iran and into India.

From our vantage point, we saw the orange-red disc of the Sun come up over the horizon with the Moon already having a bite of it. A tiny bit of the upper right quarter of the Sun was blotted out. Slowly the blot moved down across the fiery orb from upper right to lower left, the Sun was reduced from fat crescent into a thinner and thinner one and then into a mere sliver of a crescent.

Meanwhile, the encroaching black blot was developing the shape of a disc and at 5:07:39 a. m. the blot became a perfect disc—a disc that blotted out the orange-red Sun disc, except for a rim of eerie iridescent light—the "corona" of the Sun, which is the matchless wonder of our solar system.

Night Comes Again
Darkness fell over sky, and over the green islands and blue waters of the famous Lake Minnetonka directly below. Stars appeared around corona, stars that are always there but are made invisible by the Sun's intense light. Down below birds were back on their night perches—said that night had returned after only an hour or so of day. But in the plane, Menzel and two assistants from Harvard took colored motion pictures of "flash" spectrum and exposed polaroid film for later studies of polarization. Urey, a chemist, relaxed. Scientifically, it was work for astronomer Menzel.

The astronomers had only the 76 seconds the Moon disc remained on the Sun disc. Then a silver crescent appeared around the upper right quarter of the Moon. Slowly the silver fattened, and became a fiery disc again. The Moon had gone on its way. And was invisible again.

Menzel seemed a little disappointed. The Sun had been "quite inactive" for several months—relatively speaking, of course—and so this was "minimum eclipse" effect, he said. The "streamers of light" which shoot off from the corona were no longer than the width of three suns placed side by side. The bright green corona spectrum line, which tells of iron molecules on the Sun which have lost some of their atoms in the fierce heat, was not visible to the naked eye.

This was the fourth total solar eclipse he has studied in the last 32 years—he saw a "glimmer" of a fifth. As eclipses go, scientifically speaking, some of the others were better, he added. They were seeing his first and was delighted.

Two Youths Held In Slaying UMW Medical Director

ST. LOUIS (UP)—Police in suburban Ladue held two young brothers today for questioning in the mysterious slaying of Dr. Cecil T. Z. Sharp, area medical director of the United Mine Workers union, at the door of his home.

Dr. Sharp, former St. Louis county health commissioner, was fatally wounded by a bullet fired at close range Tuesday night after he went to his door to investigate a "commotion" at the rear of his home.

His 16-year-old son, Cecil, witnessed the shooting. The boy told police the assailant was a young man about 6 feet tall who fired either a rifle or a pistol at the doctor after asking, "Are you Dr. Sharp?"

The boy said the murderer was a stranger to him.
Police said the brothers held as suspects, both in their 20s, were neighbors of Dr. Sharp who had been feuding with him for years over "trivial" matters such as noisy radios and lawn mowing.
Sharp was a native of Carle, Ill., and had been health officer of Will County, Ill., before coming to St. Louis County in 1947. He left the health commissioner's post in 1948 to become medical director for the UMW.

About Town And Country

spend the rest of our time.

In the southeast corner is the shop, with finishing and storage rooms. From there you move to the kitchen and cafeteria, carefully planned so there is no cross traffic. The cafeteria will seat 200 students at one time.

What is called the EMH room for handicapped children is in the new part, with an outlet of its own onto Webster street. To the north of this is the school nurse's room. And north of this is the home economics department, which will be quite an asset to the school. There are four complete kitchen units with electric stoves along the east side of the 70-foot long room. On the west side, where there is plenty of light from the windows, will be the sewing rooms. There will be cabinets full of "tote drawers," which contain the equipment of the individual students. When the girls report, they will take out their own "tote drawers" from the cabinets and proceed with the lesson. There also is a washing machine and dryer in this department.

Farther on we went through the corridor along the east side of the gym, where there will be 90 lockers, and inspected the shower and locker rooms to the south of the gym, which will be used by the boys.

On the west side of the north end of the building is a music room and little theatre. In this room is a stage and a seating capacity of 150. This room can be locked off from the rest of the school and has an outside entrance.

To the north of this is the band room, an amphitheatre-type room with bandmaster's office, two soundproof practice rooms with special ventilation, a storage room, lockers for 108 band instruments and a small balcony where people can watch and hear the band perform.

At the north end of the building, at ground level, is the entrance to the gym, with a concession room to the west, a gym equipment room to the east and Mr. Louis Beltz' office in the northeast corner.

There are five rest rooms in the new part. Tile goes up five feet in nearly all the rooms and concrete painted in pastel shades forms the walls the rest of the way up. The floors will be of asphalt tile over concrete.

Probers Disclose Huge 'Windfall' Builders' Profits

WASHINGTON (UP)—Senate investigators disclosed today that three "windfall" apartment builders put up less than $1,000 in capital and then went on the payroll of their own corporations at $20,000 a year.

By obtaining an excessive government-insured mortgage on their projects, the builders also were able to get $1,737 per share for stock which they originally bought at $5 per share.

Participating in the quick-profit deal was the Investors Diversified Services of Minneapolis, Minn., a subsidiary of Alleghany Corp., which is controlled by railroad financier Robert R. Young.

The Senate Banking committee outlined the tangled financing behind one apartment project as it began a case-by-case study of how builders were able to make multimillion-dollar "windfall profits" by obtaining government-insured mortgages for more than the cost of a project.

Meanwhile, a high administration official disclosed the administration is prepared to implicate several "prominent" Democrats in the current housing scandals.

That announcement brought a warning from Sen. Burnet R. Maybank (D-S.C.), ranking committee Democrat, not to turn the housing investigation into "a political smear job."

Jaycees, Excel Battle to Six Inning Deadlock

In Kiwanis league play yesterday the Jaycees and Excel Market teams fought to a deadlock and after six innings the game was called because of darkness. In other games the Sahara Coals defeated the Elks, 9-0; Walker's Cleaners romped over the Texaco Chiefs, 15-5, for their second win in two days, and Ronnie's Studio defeated the Lions club, 28-6.

Weatherly pitched for the Jaycees and Childs hurled for the Excel Market and the score was tied, 8-8, when called after six innings.

King was the winning hurler for Walker's Cleaners and Dowdy was the loser. King allowed only four hits with Wathen getting three for the losers. Walkers got 13 hits with Halcher getting ready for three.

Ronnie's had 15 hits while holding the Lions to only two. Bob Clark was the winning pitcher and Chuck Henshaw the loser. Clark and Maynard were the big hitters for Ronnie's. Clark getting three for five and Maynard two for three.

Naval Academy Offers to Return 7 Crew Trophies

ANNAPOLIS, Md. — The Naval Academy's offer to return seven trophies won by its great crew because the coxswain was found to be ineligible appeared headed today for a ruling by the two bodies which control college crew racing.

Vice Adm. C. Turner Joy, superintendent of the Academy, made the surprise offer Tuesday after it was discovered that Coxswain William Kennington of Jackson, Miss., had been ineligible to compete in varsity athletics because he graduated from Vanderbilt in 1951 before entering the Academy. "Proud as we are to win championships," said Admiral Joy, "we do not want victory at the expense of the rules or at the cost of good sportsmanship."

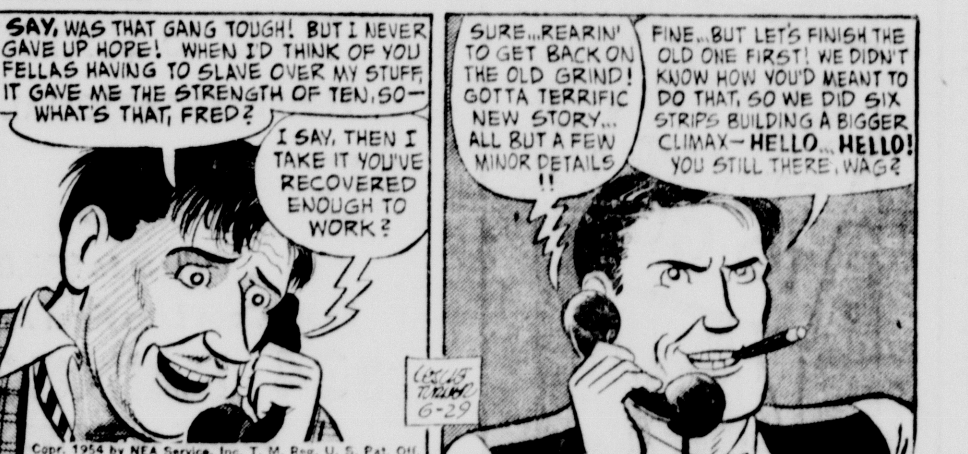

The disclosure came as a stunning blow to the Academy, which had been proud of the amazing three-year record of its varsity eight-oared crew. During that span, the Middies won 29 straight races for a record in the sport in this country, won the Olympic championship in 1952, and won the nation's most coveted race, the Intercollegiate Rowing Association regatta, three straight years.

The Navy's offer to return the trophies, as well as possible revision of record books to give victories to other schools, will be made at future meetings of the Intercollegiate Rowing Association and the Eastern Association of Rowing Colleges, both affiliates of the ECAC.

Here are the answers to the baseball quiz which appeared in yesterday's issue of The Daily Register.

1. Luke Sewell led the St. Louis Browns to a pennant in 1944 — but the All-Star game was suspended because of the war in 1945. 2. Erskine. 3. Marv Grissom started with the Giants in 1943. 4. Lloyd Waner made 223 hits in his first season in 1927. 5. Ted Kluszewski fielded .995 last season to lead the National League. Vernon and Kryhoski had .992 and Adeock .991. This year, up to June 16, Kluszewski was fielding .996.

John Romonosky, hurling for the Columbus Redbirds last week against Kansas City, twirled for six and two-thirds innings before being retired. Big John and his mates were in the lead when he left the fracas, but the Blues were on a rampage. They slugged the reliever, Schultz, into submission and went on to take the game, 6-5. Schultz was tagged with the loss. Romonosky scattered eight hits over the innings he worked and struck out five.

Don Liddle, of Mt. Carmel, Ill., who hurled against Romonosky in some games here last fall, worked against St. Louis last week. Liddle, now with the Giants, went seven innings before being replaced by New York's ace relief hurler, Hoyt Wilhelm. The Giants collected four runs in the last of the ninth in that game to give Wilhelm the victory.

The Sporting News this week passes on a story Dizzy Dean likes to tell. Dean says he was in a drugstore once when it was held up. One of the hoodlums recognized him, then mailed him a dozen neckties. "I figured the ties were stolen," Dizzy says, "and I was afraid to wear 'em. Instead, I just passed them out to the umpires."

Cardinals Call Up First Baseman

CINCINNATI — First Baseman Joe Cunningham, a left-handed hitter, was expected to join the St. Louis Cardinals in time for tonight's game against the Cincinnati Reds after being called up from Rochester of the International League.

The Cardinals also optioned first baseman Tom Alston and outfielder Tom Burgess to Rochester.

Westrum Unwanted Until He Catches

By JIMMY BRESLIN
NEW YORK (NEA) — Every year, the Giants start with a new catching hope, a guy who is going to hit a load of runs across the plate.

But it always ends up, after a month or so, as it is now. Every day, when the clock shows 10 minutes before game time, Wes Westrum sits down at one end of the dugout and begins to clomp on shin guards, pausing to look at a lumpy-fingered right hand.

"Look at this hand. Every finger broken twice and this one," he grins, sticking out the index finger, "has been broken three times. This is a tough business."

The 32-year-old balding guy has had to take rebuff after rebuff in the six years he has been in the National League.

Westrum never has been much of a hitter. His highest average in the majors was .243 in 60 games for the 1949 club.

FELLOWS LIKE Sal Yvars and Ebba St. Clair and Sam Calderone were, at various times, figured ahead of Westrum. This year, Ray Katt started out as the big man behind the bat. But he broke his hand and now the Giants are back with Westrum—and the realization, which always follows the departure of the other catcher—that this guy Wesley Noreen Westrum is a pretty good catcher.

"This is the best catcher, mechanically, that we have in baseball," Leo Durocher enthuses. "When he gets behind the plate nobody runs. He calls the right pitch. He's murder on bunts in front of the plate. He's starting to hurt the other guy with the bat, too."

Why, you might ask, if Westrum is so good, does the New York club go for a replacement every year?

That's the question Westrum asks himself all the time, then sits back and lets his class tell in the long pull.

STAN MUSIAL was at bat in the ninth inning of a tight game. A swat from The Man and the Polo Grounds would be in trouble.

On the second pitch, Musial topped a ball in front of the plate. It started to hop back toward the first base foul line. Westrum was on it like a cat. He dove and came up with it right in the line—before it rolled foul.

Wes fired to first and Musial was out. A half-step late on the play would have given Musial another chance to swing at the seats. Westrum as a hitter is the National League's version of Jim Hefner. But in the field, he makes those major league moves which go completely unnoticed by the fans who sit and boo his hitting.

With men on base, he is set to throw on every pitch. He has missed one pop foul in three years. "Hoyt Wilhelm's knuckle ball is my big headache," he says. "The guy throws it and I never know where it's going. I got hit in three places catching him the other day."

Rhodes, who also thought Durocher was going to help him straighten out Secory, was a little let down, to say the least, when Leo, an umpire hater from way back, did no such thing.

"Listen," Durocher whispered into Secory's ear, "I didn't see where the first ball was, and maybe the second one was inside, but you have your head in the ground and you're not looking at where the pitch is."

"But," Rhodes protested, "both of 'em were inside, the umpire was dead wrong."

"Look, will you forget the umpire? He's got his own troubles. Never mind him, will ya. Now be ready for that next pitch!"

Billy Loes' next pitch was a let-up in the dirt that Rhodes almost went for but didn't. Secory called it a ball.

Then Loes served up a fast ball which Rhodes pounced on like a starved wolfhound does on a bone and smashed it into center field for a two-run single. The blow gave the Giants their fifth victory in a row.

Reese Out Three Days
Dr. Eugene Zorn, the Dodger physician, said that PeeWee Reese, who pulled a muscle in his left leg will be sidelined for three days. Billy Cox will play shortstop in his place. Duke Snider, hit by one of winning pitcher Marv Grissom's tosses on the elbow, admitted he would not be able to swing a bat today.

Elsewhere in the National league, Jim Wilson of Milwaukee pitched a five-hitter to hand Chicago its 11th successive beating, 7-0; Howie Judson's hitless relief pitching over the last 4 2/3 innings plus Gus Bell's homer, helped Cincinnati to an 11-4 triumph over St. Louis, despite Stan Musial's 24th homer, and Richie Ashburn's three-run homer along with Herm Wehmeier's seven-hit flinging gave the Phils a 4-0 decision over Pittsburgh.

Art Houtteman increased Cleveland's American league lead to two games by beating Baltimore, 5-1, while the White Sox split a twin-bill with the Tigers, Detroit taking the opener, 10-3, and Chicago the finale, 5-0 on Sandy Consuegra's three-hitter.

Arnold Portocarrero of the Athletics nipped the Senators, 3-2, while the third-place Yankees buried the Red Sox, 14-5.

Charles Remains Top Contender Of Heavyweights

NEW YORK — Ezzard Charles kept his ranking of top heavyweight contender in the Ring magazine's mid-year ratings today because of his thrilling challenge against Rocky Marciano on June 17.

Champion Marciano was named "Fighter of the Month" because of his come-from-behind victory over Charles.

Light heavyweight Paul Andrews of Buffalo, N. Y., rose from seventh to fourth among contenders in his division because of his impressive kayo victory over Danny Nardico of Tampa, Fla. Nardico was dropped from eighth clear out of the rankings.

Percy Bassett of Philadelphia regained top ranking among featherweights because of his own kayo victory over Lulu Perez of Brooklyn and because Baby Ortiz of Mexico City, previously No. 1, was upset by previously unranked Carmelo Costa of Brooklyn.

Ortiz dropped from the top to fifth. Perez sank from third to fourth. Costa took over 10th position.

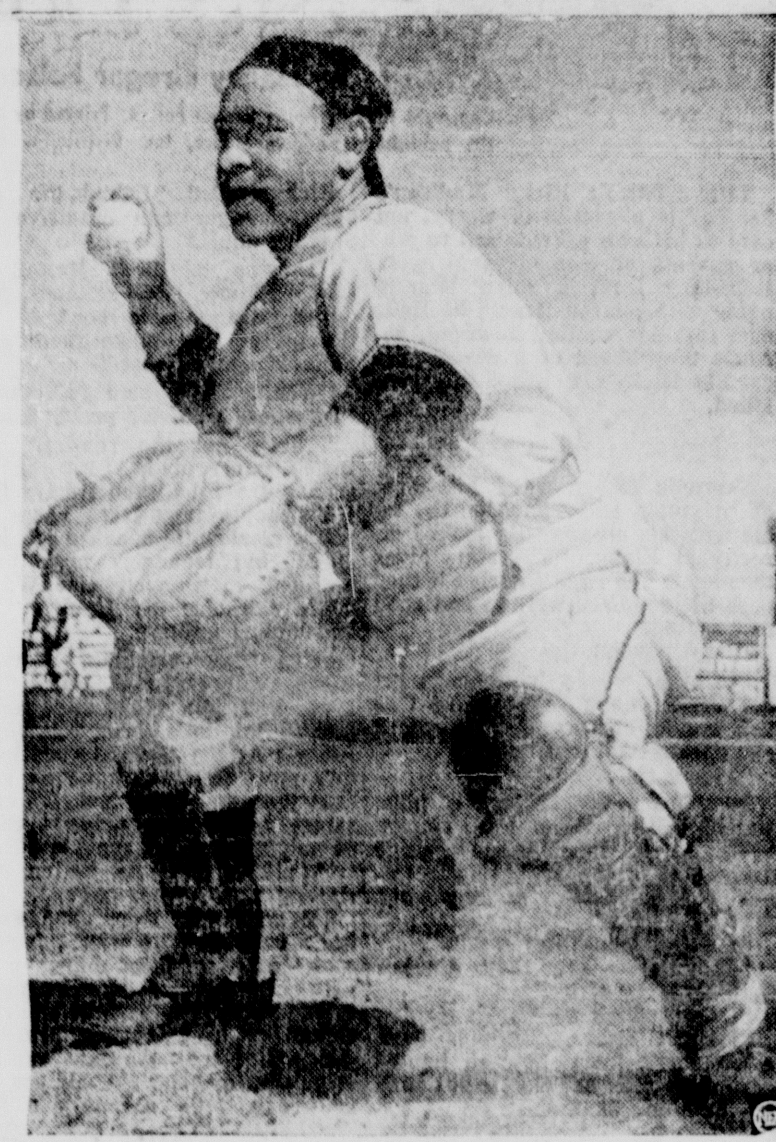

Leo Espinosa of the Philippines rose from third to first among flyweights because of his dangerous challenge while losing a disputed title decision to champion Yoshio Shirai of Japan. Espinosa replaced his countryman, Tanny Campo, who has been inactive. Campo dropped to second.

Durocher is Kind to Umpire as Giants Beat Dodgers in 13 Innings

By MILTON RICHMAN
United Press Sports Writer

A bit of unexpected kindness to an umpire—by Leo Durocher of all people—paid off today in a much more comfortable two-game lead for the red-hot New York Giants.

Durocher's charitable side toward the men in blue was shown Tuesday night in the 13th inning, a frame in which the Giants rallied for two runs to beat Brooklyn, 4-3.

Here was the setting: The Dodgers led 3-2 as a result of Don Hoak's homer in the top of the 13th. The Giants had the bases full with two out and pinch hitter Jim (Dusty) Rhodes was giving plate umpire Frank Secory what for because of a second strike he had called against him.

Durocher was out of the Giant dugout like a shot. Now, thought the frenzied crowd of 51,464 watch Durocher eat Secory up alive!

But instead of heading for Secory, Durocher called Rhodes over for a whispered consultation.

Rhodes, who also thought Durocher was going to help him straighten out Secory, was a little let down, to say the least, when Leo, an umpire hater from way back, did no such thing.

"Listen," Durocher whispered into Secory's ear, "I didn't see where the first ball was, and maybe the second one was inside, but you have your head in the ground and you're not looking at where the pitch is."

"But," Rhodes protested, "both of 'em were inside, the umpire was dead wrong."

"Look, will you forget the umpire? He's got his own troubles. Never mind him, will ya. Now be ready for that next pitch!"

Billy Loes' next pitch was a let-up in the dirt that Rhodes almost went for but didn't. Secory called it a ball.

Then Loes served up a fast ball which Rhodes pounced on like a starved wolfhound does on a bone and smashed it into center field for a two-run single. The blow gave the Giants their fifth victory in a row.

Reese Out Three Days
Dr. Eugene Zorn, the Dodger physician, said that PeeWee Reese, who pulled a muscle in his left leg will be sidelined for three days. Billy Cox will play shortstop in his place. Duke Snider, hit by one of winning pitcher Marv Grissom's tosses on the elbow, admitted he would not be able to swing a bat today.

Elsewhere in the National league, Jim Wilson of Milwaukee pitched a five-hitter to hand Chicago its 11th successive beating, 7-0; Howie Judson's hitless relief pitching over the last 4 2/3 innings plus Gus Bell's homer, helped Cincinnati to an 11-4 triumph over St. Louis, despite Stan Musial's 24th homer, and Richie Ashburn's three-run homer along with Herm Wehmeier's seven-hit flinging gave the Phils a 4-0 decision over Pittsburgh.

Art Houtteman increased Cleveland's American league lead to two games by beating Baltimore, 5-1, while the White Sox split a twin-bill with the Tigers, Detroit taking the opener, 10-3, and Chicago the finale, 5-0 on Sandy Consuegra's three-hitter.

Arnold Portocarrero of the Athletics nipped the Senators, 3-2, while the third-place Yankees buried the Red Sox, 14-5.

Charles Remains Top Contender Of Heavyweights

NEW YORK — Ezzard Charles kept his ranking of top heavyweight contender in the Ring magazine's mid-year ratings today because of his thrilling challenge against Rocky Marciano on June 17.

Champion Marciano was named "Fighter of the Month" because of his come-from-behind victory over Charles.

Light heavyweight Paul Andrews of Buffalo, N. Y., rose from seventh to fourth among contenders in his division because of his impressive kayo victory over Danny Nardico of Tampa, Fla. Nardico was dropped from eighth clear out of the rankings.

Percy Bassett of Philadelphia regained top ranking among featherweights because of his own kayo victory over Lulu Perez of Brooklyn and because Baby Ortiz of Mexico City, previously No. 1, was upset by previously unranked Carmelo Costa of Brooklyn.

Ortiz dropped from the top to fifth. Perez sank from third to fourth. Costa took over 10th position.

Leo Espinosa of the Philippines rose from third to first among flyweights because of his dangerous challenge while losing a disputed title decision to champion Yoshio Shirai of Japan. Espinosa replaced his countryman, Tanny Campo, who has been inactive. Campo dropped to second.

Tryouts Thursday
Morning by Pankey's Bakery Baseball Team

The Pankey's Bakery baseball team will have tryouts at the town park diamond Thursday at 10 a. m. Boys not on a team and under 15 years of age are asked to come, since only seven boys are now on the team.

Prospective players are asked to bring their own equipment. John Mazaros is team manager, and Bob Spurlack, coach of the pitching staff. Those who have already signed their contracts are asked to report, too.

STREET Rod

by Henry Gregor Felsen

Copyright 1953 by Henry Gregor Felsen. Printed by arrangement with the publishers, Random House, Inc. Distributed by NEA Service.

THE STORY: Ricky Madison's hot rod is a source of worry, not only to his own parents but to other parents of teenagers as well. Returning from a roller skating party with Sharon Bruce, he finds both families waiting in dread, because they heard of a wreck of a car like Ricky's, in which two were killed.

Sharon's father filled his pipe, got it going, and leaned on the table with his elbows. He looked directly at Ricky. "The state gives teenagers the right to drive if they pass the required written and road test, right?"

Ricky nodded. "In other words, in order to get a license, you have to prove that you are as competent to handle a car as any adult. Right?"

"That's right," Mr. Bruce puffed on his pipe, watching Ricky through the smoke. "Why is it, then, that teenage drivers have the highest percentage of accidents of any age group?"

"I didn't know they did," Ricky said. "Are they dumber than the rest of us?"

"I don't think so," Mr. Bruce said. "Perhaps teenagers don't know how to handle cars as well as old ladies and grown men. Is that it?"

Ricky smiled. "I think the average teenager can out-drive the average adult."

"They're terrific!" Mr. Bruce said. "I know. Good reflexes, good eyes, good muscle control. All the things that make them good athletes and all that."

"Well," Ricky said reluctantly, "I suppose we drive pretty fast."

"That's not the reason," Mr. Bruce interrupted. "I'm on the road a great deal and I drive fast. Most people drive fast. There are many accidents because of high speed, but teenagers have more accidents than anyone else. Why?"

Ricky shook his head. "Just bad luck, I guess."

"I've been thinking, Bruce," Ricky's father said carefully, "and I agree with a great deal you've said. But let's bring it home. Ricky's a teenager, and we know he's more likely to have an accident than an adult. Yet, we can't refuse to let him drive because he might have an accident."

"Wouldn't that be better than waiting until he has one?"

"It might be safer, but would it be better? The way I look at it, as long as Iowa allows a 16-year-old to drive a car if he passes the tests, he has a right to drive. Unless his behavior is unlawful to the extent that the law can deprive him of his right. If the law is wrong, let's change the law."

But we can't penalize the responsible teenager for crimes the others commit. You can't indict a generation."

"They're indicting themselves," Bruce said. "Look at the record. Arnie, what do you think?"

"I think it's time I go look around the town," Arnie put his blue cap on his head. "That was good coffee, Mrs. Bruce." He paused by the door, looking at the two families seated at the table.

"We get another depression, the car killings slow down too. Or a big war. When all the young fellows are killing with guns, the highways get a little safer. Is a depression better? Or a big war? Maybe we got to look for some new answers."

Bruce turned to Ricky's father. "Madison, I want to say something that I mean in a friendly way."

"Yes?" Ricky's father looked surprised. But they were old friends, and could speak frankly.

"I just want you to see my position in this. I want our children to go places together, but not in Ricky's car. Ricky might be a good and careful driver, but I'm not willing to take the chance."

As long as this teenage situation is so bad, I don't want Sharon riding anywhere with Ricky or any other teenager."

Ricky was in his room, tight-lipped with anger. There was a knock on his door. "Come in," Ricky said sullenly. His father came in, in shirt-sleeves, wearing slippers.

"Too bad about Sharon," his father said, sitting on the bed. "There's other girls," Ricky answered.

"I can see her father's point," Madison said. "If you were my daughter instead of my son, maybe I'd do the same thing. It isn't that I think less of you because you're a boy, naturally, but it's a different situation. Do you ever race with the others?"

"Well, yeah, once in a while. You know how it is," Ricky laughed apologetically. "One guy kind of chooses you, and you go along."

"Do you ever have any reason for racing or dragging or speeding other than for kicks?"

"Sure," Ricky said. "You put speed equipment on a car and you have to test it somehow. To see if it's working right."

"You use the streets and highways," Mr. Madison looked thoughtfully. "Tell me, Rick, do you think you fellows would slow down on the streets and roads if you had a drag strip?"

"Would we?" Rick exclaimed. "You're not just a birding, Dad. Hey!" A delighted smile appeared on Ricky's face. "What do you know about drag strips?"

Madison chuckled. "More than you think I've been reading your magazines, Ricky. Now I've read about these hot-rod clubs around the country that have drag strips, and I've read about communities and police forces that have provided a place for them, and supervised them. I've also noticed that wherever there is such a club with a strip, they pledge themselves to safe driving at all times, and cooperation with the law. Would that work in Dellville?"

"We'd clobber the guy that fouled it up," Ricky said.

Russia, France Agree to Establish Commercial Air Service

MOSCOW — Russia and France announced today they have agreed to establish the first direct commercial air service between Moscow and Western Europe.

The pact was signed Tuesday. Air France and Soviet commercial planes will share the direct route between Paris and Moscow via Prague, Czechoslovakia.

Previous commercial service to Moscow required changes at Helsinki, Finland, East Berlin or Prague.

However, a French communiqué issued in Paris made it clear that planes of neither nation would fly the entire Moscow-Paris route. Russian planes will operate between Moscow and Prague and French planes between Paris and Prague. Passengers will transfer from one line to the other at the Czech capital.

WINNER—Actress Ruth Hampton won her 100th title when she was crowned "National Sports Car Queen" in Hollywood, Calif. The shapely 23-year-old won her first title at the age of one, and has been going strong ever since.

Eldorado-Raleigh Park Board Sponsors Celebration July 4

The Eldorado-Raleigh park board is sponsoring an "Old Fashioned Fourth of July" celebration at Karel park on Monday, July 5. It is hoped that the boat dock now in the process of being built will be completed for the affair.

Free transportation from the State bank corner in Eldorado for people who want to visit the park will be furnished by the McCormack bus line.

The day will begin bright and early with string band music and at noon a basket dinner will be spread with cold ice water being supplied.

Following the dinner an hour concert will be presented by Fred Cook's city school band, and after this the patriotic program with vice president E. H. Webster as master of ceremonies will be given. Music will be furnished by Rev. and Mrs. John Henshaw and other singers. The guest speaker will be James Gwaltney, Illinois Department adjutant, from Harrisburg.

Also for entertainment there will be "coon on a log" presented by the coon hunters. Fox hunters have also been invited to meet there in conjunction with the celebration.

In the evening there will be string music and at 8 p. m. the occasion will be climaxed with a huge fireworks display over the lake.

Organizations and the public are asked to attend and parents are especially invited to come and bring their children to inspect the new playground equipment recently added to the park.

Surrounding communities are asked to put out flags in honor of this celebration which it is hoped will be an annual affair.

Shoulders, Dolan Appeals Will Be Heard July 8

ST. LOUIS —The 8th United States Circuit Court of Appeals today scheduled oral arguments in the Shoulders-Dolan and Missouri Communist appeals for July 8 in Omaha, Neb.

Former St. Louis Police Lt. Louis Shoulders and Patrolman Elmer Dolan have appealed their convictions for lying to a federal grand jury about the handling of the $600,000 Greenleaf ransom money. They are in jail at Kansas City awaiting the outcome of the appeal.

The five Communist leaders who were convicted recently for conspiring to advocate violent overthrow of the government are Mr. and Mrs. James F. Forest, William Sentner, Marcus Murphy and Robert Manewitz. They are in jail here.

Arguments on their appeals will be heard in Omaha because the court is in summer recess and there are two judges available there.

Germans Getting New Foothold In World's Market

FRANKFURT—German business men and technicians, thinking today of markets 20 years from now, are engaging in myriad activities extending around the world and including such small and relatively unknown countries as Yemen.

Big-name firms as well as others which seldom have been heard of pass up no chance to open world markets which Hitler's policy of "autarky" and World War II had closed to Germans.

Reports on these German activities are often short and inconspicuous such as the recent one from New Delhi:

"The Indian government, on advice from its German consultants, will locate its first 500,000-ton steel plant at Rourkela in Orissa state. The Krupp-Demag experts decided on the site because of nearby iron ore deposits."

But probably even more than India, the Near and Middle East, crisis-ridden and suspicious of any of the great powers, seem to take an increased interest in German business offers.

Recently it became known that the Egyptian government is considering an agreement with a German firm granting it concessions to cultivate considerable areas of the western desert near the Cairo-Alexandria highway. It was expected the firm would use the land to grow tobacco, tomatoes, and beets for export to Germany.

It was a surprise to economy experts to learn that tiny Yemen, a country ruled by one family, is contemplating granting an unidentified German firm a concession to drill for oil.

Probably the greatest success of post-war Germany on the world market was the Volkswagen, the small automobile now being sold in virtually all free European countries as well as in India, Indonesia, Ceylon, Thailand, Ireland, South Africa, and Brazil.

Where high customs and tariffs make import of the automobile virtually impossible, assembly plants are being established with local labor doing most of the work.

Australia soon will have its own Volkswagen plant which ultimately should be able to turn out 1,000 units a month.

In Brazil and other Latin American countries, German steel experts are busy helping governments and private firms to streamline production, and there is hardly a German diplomat leaving for South America who does not consult with German business experts prior to his departure.

German Shipping

Official and private observers in the Middle East keep a watchful eye on Egypt and India where there are plans for the construction of huge power plants which should enable both countries to make tremendous progress toward industrialization. What Krupp and Demag experts are to power, and it is no longer a secret that Siemens will be offered a part in the building of a huge power plant in India.

But German producers not only look for new markets, they also see to it that German products are shipped on German-built cargo vessels flying the German flag.

While in the United Kingdom and the United States the post-war ship-building boom appears to have

The Daily Register, Harrisburg, Illinois
Page Two, Section Two
Wednesday, June 30, 1954

passed its peak, output in the shipyards of Europe continues to grow. This is notably so in Germany, where tonnage built for home and export increased in one year by 298,000 tons.

Today, Germany whose cargo fleet was mostly destroyed during the war or sailed under the flags of the countries entitled to German reparations is in 11th place in Lloyds of London's gross tonnage list. Germany's gross tonnage was 1,749,543 tons by the end of 1953.

The West German federal republic is one of the world's greatest exporters, running in third place behind the United States and Great Britain. Last year West Germany's exports totaled $4,400,000,000, as compared with the United States' $35,000,000,000 and Britain's $7,500,000,000.

PETER EDSON'S Washington News Notebook

V. P.'s Galore at Pentagon—Safe Question—Entertainment or Necessity?—Mixed-Up Charge

WASHINGTON — (UP) — The Pentagon will have the equivalent of 30 civilian vice presidents if new proposals by Defense Secretary C. E. Wilson are approved by Congress.

Mr. Wilson wants Army, Navy and Air Force to have two more assistant secretaries apiece—for a total of six more "v. p.'s."

Each service now has a secretary, an undersecretary and two assistant secretaries—a total of 12.

The Department of Defense now has an undersecretary and 11 assistant secretaries.

Every one of these civilian vice presidents, of course, has his deputies and assistants, plus equivalent military men in uniform to tell them what it's all about. The result is that there is now proportionately more top bureaucracy around the Pentagon than there ever was.

This explains in part why sessions like Secretary Wilson's big conference and clamor at Quantico over a recent weekend seem like a good thing. They help everybody get acquainted with everybody else on a first-name basis. The official attendance was around 150. Call 'em vice presidents and you won't be far wrong.

their product and pinning down prospects—has been furnished by Secretary of the Treasury George M. Humphrey.

At a "Borrowing Committee" meeting of about 30 leading bankers from all over the country, brought to Washington every so often to review government loan programs, the secretary asked how many of the group had been called on by automobile salesmen this year.

Only two of the bankers raised their hand.

Secretary Humphrey then asked how many of the group would now be in the market for a new car if solicited and sold.

Fifteen raised their hands.

P. S. to salesman. Secretary Humphrey himself isn't in the market. He just traded in the old convertible which he drives around town himself when it developed mechanical trouble. This is what made it safe for him to raise the question.

ferences was accomplished.

One of the few charges brought against atomic scientist J. Robert Oppenheimer in his security clearance case was that while in Paris last year, Dr. Oppenheimer had lunch with Haakon Chevalier, a former alleged American Communist, and that the next day the two met with Andre Malraux.

Not much attention was paid to who Malraux was, and what political views he now holds.

He is, of course, a well-known French writer, soldier and adventurer. Before and during the war he was an admitted Communist revolutionary.

Since the war he has become an idea man for Gen. Charles de Gaulle, of all people, and a violent anti-Communist known as "the Louis Budez of France."

So what Dr. Oppenheimer was being accused of here, in effect, was association with a French fascist.

Even Carbon Paper Is Top Secret

RICHLAND, Wash. — (UP) — Classified material at the Hanford plutonium plant is guarded so closely that even a scientist's carbon paper must be accounted for.

In fact, so secret is the handling of "top secret" material that even the method of handling it is secret, according to Chris Stevenson, head of the technical information files unit at the sprawling atomic works.

Stevenson said his office is required to account for all classified documents at all times. Receipts are issued with each document checked out. About 100,000 documents are checked out annually to authorized personnel who must guard not only the document but also notes, stencils, carbon paper and reference material.

A scientist may make notes from a classified document only in a notebook which also is kept in the security files. And if he writes a report for publication, the material used in preparing it for printing is shredded and destroyed under the watchful eyes of the files section.

County Board of School Trustees to Organize Tuesday

The Saline County Board of School Trustees will hold its organization meeting at 8 p. m. Tuesday, July 6, in the office of R. Dale Wilson, county superintendent of schools.

Two new members of the board, J. W. Wintzler and Charles Hunsinger, were elected in April.

Several school district consolidation petitions are scheduled to be acted upon.

ACADEMY HEAD—Rear Adm. Walter F. Boone, above, will succeed Vice Adm. Turner Joy as superintendent of the U. S. Naval Academy on July 1. Boone is now serving on the Joint Strategic Survey Committee of the Joint Chiefs of Staff in Washington, D. C.

CUSTOM NOTE: Twin-Turbine Dynaflo and Safety Power Steering are standard equipment on every Buick Roadmaster at no extra cost.

It makes you feel like the man you are

You must know, of course, that a fine car is more than merely a means of fine travel.

It is, as the psychologists tell us, an extension of a man's own personality.

It reflects what you feel, what you like, what you are.

So we ask you to take the wheel of a Buick Roadmaster like the one shown here—for it is, we have found, the automobile chosen more and more by those who are definitely moving ahead in the world.

You will find it a car that fairly breathes success.

From its size and its breadth and the magnificent modernity of its styling, you know it is a car of custom stature—and so does the watching world.

The wondrous windshield is a pride in itself. You don't just see the view—you command it.

You will find it, too, a car of luxurious obedience.

From the moment you ease your foot down on the pedal, you take immediate mastery of the road and of distance.

And you know it—in the silken whip of Twin-Turbine Dynaflo, the might of Buick's greatest horsepower, the magic cushioning of coil springs on all four wheels, the exhilarating ease of Buick Safety Power Steering at your hand.

But with all this, you buy with prudence when you buy a ROADMASTER.

For—though it is, and looks, custom production—it sells for the lowest price-per-pound in the fine-car field. And so wise an investment makes you feel even more like the man you are.

Drop in, or phone us this week, and we'll gladly arrange a demonstration.

BUICK SALES ARE SOARING!

Latest figures for the first four months of 1954 show Buick now outstripping every other car in America except two of the so-called "low-price three." Better look into Buick if you want the beauty and the buy of the year.

New Record Forecast For Air Conditioners

NEW YORK — (AP) — The nation plans to keep cooler this summer than ever before, no matter what the weather.

Industry sources estimate that sales of air conditioning units will reach 1,300,000 this year, compared with 1,075,000 last year, and 29,800 in 1946.

Three out of every four sold in 1954 will go into the home, according to William F. Carolan, sales manager of RCA air conditioners. Carolan said that usually the first unit bought by a family is for the bedroom; the second goes into the children's room or the living room.

4-H Club News

The Helpful Homemakers Home Economics 4-H club met Friday evening, June 25, at the home of Regina Locklar for the regular meeting and a wiener roast. The secretary called the roll with all members being present.

It was decided as an extra project for this year that the older girls would help the community housewives in their canning.

Anna Harbison gave a demonstration on how to make a blind man's seam, and Barbara Stillely talked on the manicuring of finger nails.

The next meeting will be in July at the home of Barbara and Bonnie Stillely.

Prather-Stowe Marriage Solemnized at Carrier Mills Methodist Church

The wedding of Miss Eleanor Jean Prather, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James B. Prather, and Richard Alan Stowe, was solemnized Sunday, June 13, at 3 p. m. in the Carrier Mills First Methodist church. The Rev. W. A. Robinson, Carbondale district superintendent, officiated at the ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a ballerina length gown of white embroidered organdy over white taffeta and a fingertip veil of illusion. She carried a white Bible covered with a cascade bouquet of white orchids.

Miss Nancy Prather, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, wearing a gown of pale blue embroidered organdy over blue taffeta. Miss Peggy Stowe, sister of the bridegroom, was bridesmaid, gowned in yellow embroidered organdy over yellow taffeta. Little Connie Jo King, niece of the bride, was flower girl, and her gown was also of yellow organdy and taffeta. Their gowns were complemented by head dresses and nose gays of split carnations and rosebuds.

A reception immediately followed the wedding in the church basement.

The bride is a graduate of the Carrier Mills high school with the class of 1951 and is employed as secretary of the First Methodist church in Carbondale.

The bridegroom graduated from Southern Illinois university the evening of the wedding, and he expects to enter seminary this fall in preparation for the ministry.

After a honeymoon at the Lake of the Ozarks the couple is now at home at 403 West Oak street in Carbondale.

Out of town guests present were Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Stowe, Collinsville, Mrs. E. Guy Case, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde O'Leary, Fairfield, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Verhoman and children, Patsy and Tommy, Mrs. Billy Webster, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Case and children, Pat and Carol, Mt. Carmel, Mr. and Mrs. Manuel DeLeon, Daly City, Calif., Mrs. Pauline Newkirk, Dayton, Ohio, Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Nell and children, Donna and David, Plainville, Ind., Mr. and Mrs. Waldo Kennard, Browns, Ill., Mr. and Mrs. James R. Prather and children, Beth Ann and Gregory, Caseyville, Mr. and Mrs. Ishmael King and children, Connie Jo and Gaylene, Robinson, Miss Carol Prather, Miamisburg, Ohio, and Miss Linda Stanford, Evanston, Ill.

Town and Country Home Bureau Unit Has Meeting

The Town and Country Home Bureau unit met Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Helen Walker.

The home adviser, Mrs. Mary Harper, gave the lesson for the month on "How to Rest and Relax" after which each member told their personal way of resting.

During the business meeting the officers of the unit were selected as a committee to nominate new officers for the coming year, and a committee consisting of Mrs. Lodema Sisk and Mrs. Joan Land was nominated to draw up the by-laws.

Refreshments of cookies and lemonade were served to Mesdames Norma Carpenter, Laurana Horn, Vera Vaughn, Joan Land, Lodema Sisk, Lillian Jones, Mona Lane, Beulah Glass, Wilma Simpson, Mary Harper and the hostess, Helen Walker.
